Table 1: Deposit Concentration and Branch Presence in Largest Deposit Districts

Bank	Largest district	Deposits (%)	Branches	All branches	Branches (%)
Banco BCI Peru[a]	San Isidro	100.0	1	1	100.0
ICBC Peru Bank[a]	San Isidro	100.0	1	1	100.0
Bank of China (Peru)[a]	San Isidro	100.0	1	1	100.0
Citibank del Peru[a]	San Isidro	100.0	1	1	100.0
Banco Santander Peru[a]	San Isidro	100.0	1	1	100.0
Banco GNB Peru	San Isidro	70.7	2	11	18.2
BanBif	San Isidro	63.2	4	62	6.5
Interbank	La Victoria	55.8	2	151	1.3
Scotiabank Peru	San Isidro	50.9	14	176	8.0
Mibanco	Surquillo	47.7	1	294	0.3
BBVA Peru	San Isidro	42.2	12	297	4.0
Banco Pichincha	Miraflores	40.3	1	45	2.2
Banco Ripley	San Isidro	29.7	2	34	5.9
Banco Falabella	San Borja	26.3	1	52	1.9
Bancom (Banco de Comercio)	San Isidro	25.5	1	19	5.3
Alfin Banco	Miraflores	23.6	1	42	2.4
Banco de Credito del Peru	Lima	17.1	12	306	3.9
Mean		58.4	3.4	87.9	32.9
Median		50.9	1	42	5.9
Correlation, deposits vs. branches		0.91			0.75
excl. single-office banks		0.53			0.31

Note:
Each bank's largest deposit district is the distrito in which it books the greatest volume of deposits, from SBS Boletin B-2358 branch-level reporting for December 2023. Deposit share is that district's share of the bank's total deposits; branch share is its share of the bank's branches; both are reported as percentages. The last two rows report the Pearson correlation between the two shares under Deposits and the Spearman rank correlation under Branches. Deposits are recorded at the branch that books the account, so wholesale and corporate balances are attributed to head offices in Lima's financial district rather than to the depositor's location.

[a] Single-office bank: the largest deposit district holds 100 per cent of both deposits and branches by construction.